

PUBLICATION ETHICS AND MALPRACTICE STATEMENT

Al-Karmil Journal is dedicated to the dissemination of the results of original and innovative research concerning the study of Arabic language (classical and dialectal), Arab literature (classical and modern), Islamic thought, Islamic societies, the interaction between Arabic language and other semitic languages. The journal is committed to the local and international academic community and in order to assure the highest standards for the published articles and reviews, a double-blind reviewing policy is applied. In pursue of the compliance with academic standards, all parties involved in the process of publishing (the authors, the editors and the editorial board and the reviewers) agree to meet the responsibilities stated in COPE Ethical Guidelines for Peer Reviewers.